

I'm in my car and travel ALOT. XM radio provides me a way to listen to uninterrupted (NO COMMERCIALS) my entire ride when I'm in different states or running errands in town. I choose XM radio and to pay $9.95 a month so I could enjoy more music and listen to what I want to hear not what a radio station wants me to hear. I was thrilled that XM was going to release city traffic channels! I can't see the downside to that. If I'm traveling out of town that's going to give me the ability to maneuver around an accident and save me time and produce less road rage if I didn't have the ability. The NAB has no right to be the ONLY one to report traffic! They don't want it cause it's the last thing they can provide locally to each region and make you listen to commercials and ad spots to get their local traffic reports. I think it's a violation of the 1st amendment and it's a last ditch effort for NAB to control reporting information that is not owned by anyone!
